RED TRAVERTINE

MACROSCOPIC DESCRIPTION

Red Travertine is a beautiful natural stone extracted from Iran or Turkey whose color may vary in intensity from deep red to more tenuous shades, based on the quarry and block of extraction. The veining may also vary in color from cream to white and the color shadings that may be more intense than its background color.

Red Travertine, as almost all travertines, are suitable for both interior designs and exterior ones, for private and public applications. This special natural stone gives personality and originality to applications as staircases and floorings - also combined with other types of marbles - facings of classical and modern style, decorations and daily objects, furniture, jewelry, tops for kitchens, vases and trays and many more.
